Message from the President, ICA-Asia and Pacific

Over half the century, the International Co-operative Alliance in Asia and Pacific has been making a consistent effort to unite and capacitate the co-operatives and mobilise the governments and stake holders to reenergise the movement for sustainable and holistic growth of the society at large through organised resources for taking on challenges of economic crises, conflicts and more over the challenges of natural disasters. As we continue in steady yet persistent way, I am happy to present the report for 2011.

The year has been an eventful year, starting with surprises and pain and concluded in excitement with historic launch of IYC-2012 in Cancun. Mr.S.K. Jhakar, ICA Board Member from IFFCO, India passed away. New Zealand, Japan, Indonesia, Thailand and Philippines suffered a great deal due to natural calamities. As the dawn of UN International Year of Co-operatives (IYC) 2012 was unfolding gradually to unveil the launch in November 2011, the beginning of the year was marked with huge devastation in member countries and organisations. The loss of human life and material is irreparable. Yet co-operative spirit persisted as always and due to relentless efforts of co-operatives and members in their respective countries and help pouring in from international co-operative fraternity, the wounds could be caressed.

As the co-operative spirit reigns supreme, the ICA and members could never let the work be effected. It is remarkable on the part of the Japanese co-operative movement that ICA-Asia and Pacific could complete all the three big Training projects in the country as scheduled and same with Thailand, Indonesia and Philippines.

Suffering of co-operatives and members due to unexpected events such as natural calamities require serious consideration and calls for preparedness in terms of funds and other resources. We pay our homage to all who lost their lives in these disasters. The ICA -Asia and Pacific has put in best efforts to address the needs of the co-operative members by extending resources for capacity building, advocacy, networking and lobbying, and by providing strategic leadership.

However, it is the overall support of members, governments and stakeholders from the region which enables us to implement projects and programs.

Significant achievements during the year could be listed as intensive follow up and coordination with members to launch and observe IYC 2012 country wise, increase in membership, MOU signed with the Government of Thailand for hosting the 9th Asia Pacific Co-operative Ministers' Conference, commencement of 4th Critical Study on Law and Policy and study of Consumer Co-operatives in Asia. Besides, integration of women and youth, ensuring gender mainstreaming and youth participation, management of consumer, fisheries, agriculture, banking, credit and rural sectors remained the priority.

The early next year 2012 will witness the 9th Asia –Pacific Co-operative Ministers' Conference which will deliberate upon the need of political will to create enabling legal and policy environment for co-operatives. In the wake of IYC-2012, several members/countries have already initiated discussion on revising the co-operative law and policies of their countries.

We are grateful to all our members, partners, stake holders and staff for their co-operation and support in achieving our goals.

Regional Director's Report

In Asia-Pacific, the devastation by natural disaster could not keep the co-operatives grounded for a long time. The co-operatives faced the challenges with exemplary grit and courage and the spirit of solidarity and concern for community put the regular business back on the track soon.

Despite the challenges, we could successfully complete our projects as planned with the uninterrupted support of all the members and partners, especially from Japan, Thailand and Philippines who had experienced terrible loss of human life and property and it will take a long time to recover from the sufferings.

The UN has provided a life time opportunity to co-operative institution by decelerating International Year of Co-operatives—2012 and ICA has called upon all the co-operatives worldwide to take advantage of the opportunity by launching the IYC-2012 in Cancun in November-2011. The ICA-AP office is coordinating and following up with members for celebration of the year to generate awareness, creating and building enabling environment for growth and development of the co-operative model of business.

The coming year-2012 will be quite busy as we are preparing to organize several important events such as the 9th Asia-Pacific Co-operative Ministers' Conference due to be held this year but will be organized in 2012 to mark the IYC-2012, 10th ICA –AP Regional Assembly, Co-operative Forum, Committee meetings and related events and Regional Board meetings. Besides the regional office programmes, a number of IYC-2012 celebratory events are being planned by members which will keep the region and regional office busy throughout the year.

We are grateful to our members, the concerned Governments and all stake holders and partners for their active support and co-operation and looking forward to continued partnership in future as well.

Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with Government of Thailand

Dr. CHOI with Director General of CPD and other officials

Pursuant to the invitation of the Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operatives, Government of Thailand, to host the 9th Asia-Pacific Co-operative Ministers Conference in early 2012, the Regional Director of ICA-AP, Dr. Chan Ho CHOI visited Bangkok in February 2011 and held discussions with the officials of Co-operative Promotion Department (CPD) and the Co-operative League of Thailand (CLT). The discussions revolved around various operational details and roles and responsibilities of various institutions, namely, Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operatives, the Co-operative League of Thailand (CLT) an ICA member and the ICA-Asia and Pacific to work towards a successful organization of the 9th

Asia-Pacific Co-operative Ministers' Conference.

It was agreed upon that the Conference will be held from 27th-29th February 2012 and the Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operatives, Government of Thailand will host the Conference.

Recognizing that ICA is a member-based organisation, it was recommended that the Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operatives may appropriately involve the CLT for the successful organization of the Conference.

A Memorandum of Understanding (MOU), mentioning the roles and responsibilities, including financial liability of partners namely, Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operatives, Government of Thailand, ICA-Asia and Pacific and CLT was signed by the ICA-AP and the Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operatives, Government of Thailand.

Natural calamity and Co-operative Solidarity

Concern for Community

The region was struck by natural disasters during the year and members from New Zealand, Japan, Indonesia and Thailand suffered huge losses. The ICA-AP office extended solidarity and appealed for help. The solidarity and help extended by members further strengthened the co-operatives claim as a specific values-based business model.

Havoc caused by natural crises continued to trouble people in Asia and as we reported, Japan was heavily damaged in March.

Japan Disaster

A powerful tsunami has swept across a large area of northern Japan causing major damage, flooding towns and sweeping away buildings. It was triggered by a 8.9-magnitude earthquake on 11 March 2011. As reported by the media about 10,000 persons have died, thousands are reported to be missing and a large numbers are seriously injured. ICA and many ICA members have sent letters of condolences and support to ICA members in Japan. In addition, on 16 March the ICA launched an appeal to collect donations for its Japan Disaster Recovery Fund. A number of Japanese members have already established special funds for those that wish to support both the immediate relief efforts and long term reconstruction.

There were reports of huge damage to co-operatives and co-operative members in the country. We have been in contact with our members and received regular updates about the damage and recovery measures. ICA made an appeal to the world to extend a helping hand. Due to their admirable grit and courage, Japanese people are on the fast track of recovery as Cherry Blossom in April filled the country with new hope. Dr. Choi visited members in Japan on a solidarity mission post Tsunami devastation.

ICA president in Japan

The ICA President Dame Pauline Green visited Tsunami affected areas of Japan during her visit to the country from 11 to 14 July-2011. The visit was to extend solidarity with the co-operative members who suffered loss due to the calamity.

She visited Miyagi Agricultural Co-operative and Strawberry Farm, Araham Port and a shop of Miyagi Consumer Co-operatives and met with the co-operators to share their grief.

She also met with representatives of agricultural, consumer and fishery co-operative in Miyagi prefecture and had meeting with the Japanese National Co-operative Organizations affiliated with ICA at JA-Zenchu.

Flood in Thailand

Some of the Victims with Disaster Relief Packages

The whole nation was devastated. However, 187 co-operatives societies were totally damaged and around 450,000 individual members were directly affected and remained in bad condition. To provide urgent relief to co-operative sector, CLT mobilised all fund and consumer goods from some of co-operative members in Bangkok area. They made the "Disaster Relief Packages" and gave away to the affected areas. All majority of the flood victims in the affected area had already been evacuated but they will wait for the water to go. For the long term rehabilitation program, CLT has launched the center as "CLT National Flood Relief Center" at CLT Central Office in Bangkok to provide emergency operation as a central point to help all co-operative members who were affected from floods, storm, and landslide. The main aims of the center are to act as a central point and communicate immediately with the floods victims in co-operative sector, providing and coordinating operational, and support needs of the co-operative members. It was also to assist in coordination and communication between donors and victims of the floods, storm, and landslide as emergency response and recovery operations. To achieve and provide relief to the flood victims in co-operative sector, CLT, which set up long term plan to relief and recovery of all victims in co-operatives sector are as follows:

1. CLT National Flood Relief Center

CLT allocated some own funds and donation as well, such as collection of necessary consumer goods to give away to co-operative members at remote areas. The center located at CLT Compound was to collect all donated items and bring immediately directly to the co-operatives and set up the mobile team to assist urgently to the victims in the flood areas.

2. Relief and Recovery program

CLT will work closer with government agencies concerned to conduct the urgent needs survey, collect important data, and design long term plan to provide relief and recovery to the victims in co-operative sector such as co-operative office renovation, various training courses will be designed to relief to all business of the co-operative.

3. Rehabilitation plan

To provide the necessary education and training services focused on the flood affected areas. The scope of training are within two areas;

- Operational training – to increase skill, capacity and knowledge of co-operative staff and understanding of their responsibilities to do the daily operations.
- Strategic training – regarding short and long term planning of the organization's future direction and strategic areas.

In order to achieve the needs and goals to relief and recovery the flood victims in co-operative sector, still needed to mobilize a huge amount of fund. Since CLT is membership based organization, all extra activities to be done are only relied on annual membership fee. They request for financial assistance and support from the national and international co-operative organizations. For receiving help to assist or sponsor plan to relief and recovery of the floods victims in co-operatives sectors in Thailand, CLT has set up the "CLT Fund for Natural Disaster.

• Quality and Safety Management of Farm Products

Perhaps due to poverty and large number of population, most of Asian countries focus more on increasing farm/food production and generally less attention is paid to safety and quality of the farm products/food resulting into health and environmental problems. Un informed/misinformation use of chemicals, pesticides and fertilizers and other farm inputs impact the quality of food and also affect the soil etc. Therefore, it has become necessary to ensure quality and safety management of farm products including meats, dairy and poultry etc. for better health of people, better value to farm products and conservation of soil and natural resources as well.

In order to address these concerns, the ICA-Japan Training Course on "Quality and Safety Management of Farm Products" was designed as a new training course commencing from the current year 2011 to 2013. This is a new project introduced jointly by ICA and MAFF, Japan in collaboration with JA-Zenchu and IDACA. Three courses of 25 days each will be conducted during the 3 years project period at IDACA in Japan and about 48 leaders, managers, farmers or government officials will be trained.

Objectives of the Course

The objective of the training course is to assist fostering of experts in distribution field who play the roles in the quality and safety management of farm products at an agricultural co-operative or farmers' group in order to increase income and agricultural production in the LDCs of Mekong River Countries and the South Asian Countries.

The first training course of this new project was held from July 11 to August 4, 2011 at IDACA in Japan which was implemented by ICA, based on an agreement among ICA, JAZENCHU, IDACA and MAFF.

16 persons including female and male middle level government officials and co-operative managers and leaders from 9 countries (South Asia and CLMV countries of Mekong River) attended the programme.

The training started in IDACA with classroom lectures and a week-long study visit to Nara prefecture. The entire programme was conducted by IDACA in close cooperation with ICA.

Following are the key subjects covered during the course:

- Introduction to Japan, Japanese society, Culture and Agriculture.

(G) Research and studies

Periodic study, data collection and research on topics of interest have been commissioned by the office regularly for development of the co-operative institutions in the region.

Following activities in this sphere of research have been initiated:

- 4th Critical Study of “Co-operative Law and Policy”

Periodic 4th Critical Study of “Co-operative Law and Policy” in the region has been commissioned to study the legal environment in the region which will help creating a roadmap for future developments.

The 4th Critical Study on Co-operative Laws and Policies will be carried out in the backdrop of continuing global economic slowdown and the crisis in the Eurozone causing shrinking output and incomes and socio economic distress in most countries of Asia Pacific region. This and unprecedented natural calamities in the region – Tsunami and nuclear disaster in Japan in March 2011 and the preceding Tsunami in 2005-6 affecting countries along the coasts of Indian Ocean posed new challenges before the co-operatives. These called for a fresh review of co-operative laws and policies to assess whether the legal and institutional reforms suggested in the last Co-operative Ministers Conference at Kuala Lumpur were find in place and the capacity of the co-operatives to mobilise and support the poorer segments of the society to cope with the adverse and multi dimensional impact of globalisation. The terms of reference for the study laid stress on studying co-operative laws and policies on the criteria of ‘core’ co-operatives values and principles and practices as embodied in the ICA Principles of Co-operative Governance. The study will take stock of the measures taken by the member countries since the Kuala Lumpur Declaration and their impact on functioning of co-operatives.

The Study will cover 17 member countries. In most of the target countries, most co-operative laws are not ICA Principles compliant, with varying degrees of non compliance and mismatches between policies and laws. These anomalies need to be removed specially the wide powers of the government reducing the autonomy and member driven nature of the co-operatives as a part of restructuring to make the co-operatives dynamic, capable of playing a strategic role in the economy balancing the corporate led market and societal needs of consumption and services based on fair trade and pricing, restraining speculative actions and ensuring protection of environment and people’s participation in economic decision making. To achieve this, attaining viability of co-operative at the primary level must be the prime objective which could be possible when these are made multipurpose ‘one stop shop’ facilities meeting all needs of the community especially credit and vital services.

The study will be completed by December, 2011 and the findings of the study will be presented at the 9th Asia Pacific Co-operative Ministers Conference to be held in Bangkok in February, 2012.

• Study on Consumer Co-operatives in Asia

A study on Consumer Co-operatives in Asia was conducted. The objectives of the study is to study and prepare reports on present status of Consumer Cooperative Movement in specific countries in the Asia-Pacific region including the information on Structure/administrative set up, membership, governing laws - major issues, nature of activity - promotional, commercial, nature and volume of business in last 3 years, problem areas/constraints and possible solutions, work program for future, government policy/support to the consumer cooperatives etc.

13 ICA member countries from Asia-Pacific region were selected for the study.

The main purpose of the study are (a) To use the inputs of successful countries to improve the working of the societies where they need help and assistance. (b) To prepare suitable plan of action/corrective steps to improve the working in the countries where they need such help including preparation of short-term and long-term work program.

• Promotion of Technical Cooperation among Co-operatives in Asia-Pacific

The term "Technical Co-operation" is a co-operation with an institution, nation or person For it's over all socio-economic growth and development by providing technology in the form of various resources such as skill development, finance, expertise, material and infrastructure etc.

For last several decades, the ICA in the region has been promoting technical co-operation among co-operatives in collaboration with the member co-operative organisations for socio-economic development of the individual as well as the institutions. A number of training programs, exchange visits and lobbying and advocacy events are being held for economic and social development of co-operative members which in turn will contribute in the development of the respective countries.

In the context of recent global economic slowdown, the ICA-AP has commissioned a study to find out how to promote further the "Technical Co-operation among Co-operatives in Asia-Pacific region".

The study document will be available soon.

• Promotion of International Trade among Co-operatives in Asia-Pacific

The co-operative organisations in the region are contributing significantly in the national economy. A range of production and marketing businesses have been handled by the co-operative sector such as textiles, dairy, fisheries, agricultural products, fertilizer, consumer goods and services etc. However, instances of international trade among co-operatives in the region are negligible. This sector has tremendous potential in the region as co-operatives have a huge member base that could be a ready market.

The globalisation, open market, WTO and economic recession are equally affecting the co-operatives and co-operatives are working hard to retain their market. In such trying times, international trade among co-operatives could provide a stable market in tradition of upholding the Principle of Co-operation among Co-operatives.

Therefore, a study on "Promotion of International Trade among Co-operatives in Asia-Pacific" was commissioned to find out trade possibilities among the co-operatives in the region.

• Regional workshop on co-operative research

The ICA Committee on Co-operative Research for Asia-Pacific has organizing a Regional Research Seminar at Bhubaneswar in Odisha state of India during 23-24 July, 2011. Chairperson of the Committee, Dr. G.N. Saxena of Indian Farmers' Fertilizer Co-operative and Prof. L.K. Vaswani, Pro VC of the School of Rural Management of Kalinga University were the organizers and Dr. A. Samntha, founder Chairman of Kalinga Institute of Technology (KIIT) and Kalinga Institute of Social Sciences (KISS) inaugurated the seminar.

The theme of the seminar was Activities and Initiatives by

Co-operatives on Food Security and Climate change and Millennium Development Goals of the UN, with special reference to Empowering Women and Youth.

Several researchers made presentation on this occasion and very good discussions held. The seminar has been of the benefit to co-operatives and researchers in Asia-Pacific in identifying future course of action for co-operatives, especially in the back drop of UN International Year of Cooperative-2012. The proceeding of the Seminar was brought out in a book form and is a remarkable contribution of the research committee.

(H) Communication

This is the era of networking and connectivity through all kind of media which has changed the speed of exchange of information as never before. Thus, regular communication has become a crucial tool of networking for a member based organization like ICA. In order to improve and expand flow of information collection and dissemination to provide better networking services to members, the communication strategy of the office was reviewed and strengthened. Following activities implemented to maintain the flow of information and networking:

- Newsletter

Six issues of the bimonthly office newsletter have been compiled, published and distributed electronically as well as by post.

However, the co-operatives in the region have been very busy with number of activities as seen from this issue-the ICA issued message on the eve of International Women's Day-2011, the Logo and slogan for the International Day of Co-operatives-2011 is announced and the UN has issued the Logo of the IYC-2012. We are interacting with members for preparations of the event. We have also conducted several activities to serve our members better, focusing on capacity building and have received news about their events as well. The COOPFED, Sri Lanka is making a mark by adding value to consumer co-operative services. We also cover news of interest from the region through other sources for the benefit of the readers such as decisions by the Governments which impacts co-operative institutions and the co-operative members as citizens of the country. We are happy to note that the members have started sharing their news gradually but their views about the news letter is awaited. Hope to hear from you.

- Annual Report-2010

The Annual Report of 2010 was compiled, published and distributed.

- Website

The office Website (www.ica-ap.coop) was re-designed and launched. The website is being updated regularly.

- Collection and dissemination of information

All the important news, messages circulars, notices and announcement etc. from the region, from central and other regions of ICA as well as from UN and other stake holders have been sent regularly to all members. The members were encouraged to share their news and information to be shared with others in the region through our newsletter, e-mail and website.

- Collection and publicity of Coop Success Stories

In the backdrop of IYC-2012, the communication division collected as many as 10 coop stories and uploaded on the website.

Sugar from Coconut Tree – Agrarian Reform Co-operative in Mindanao

Coconut sugar is made from sweet sap that drips from cut flower buds of coconut tree. To collect translucent sap, skilled farmers need to climb up to top of tree. Then in boiling, juicy sap starts to transform into a thick syrup known as "toddy", and further reduced to crystal powder. This organic sugar is considered to be healthier because of its richness in minerals and vitamins, and safer for even diabetics because of its low glycemic index (GI=35). Earlier in 2003, coconut farmers became to know the price of coco-sugar was three times higher than ordinary sugar. Then they started to boil sap instead of fermenting to an alcoholic beverage called 'tuba'. The Linabu Agrarian

Dr. Chan Ho Choi attended a general meeting of the Linabu Agrarian Multipurpose Cooperative, Mismis Oriental, Mindanao

Multipurpose Co-operative (LAMPCO) produces 1,500Kg per month in their processing facility which was rebuilt October last year with 1.3 M peso provided by the Department of Agrarian Reform (DAR). This village-based co-operative was established in 1997 with 172 members when Philippine government enacted the land transfer program (Comprehensive Agrarian Reform Program) in Mindanao for indigenous people to settle down peacefully in production on their communal lands. Mr. Orlando R. Ravanera who is Executive Director cum Region-10 Director of CDA said that “creation of those agrarian reform beneficiaries’ co-operatives have contribute largely to region’s peace and inclusiveness of endogenous peoples into a market economy through co-operatism. Isn’t it wonderful?

In 2000, the ICA Board established the Rochdale Pioneers Award.

The purpose of this Award is to recognise a person or, under special circumstances a co-operative organisation, having contributed to innovative and financially sustainable co-operative activities that have significantly benefited their membership.

Mr. Lee became the chairman of ICFO in November, 2009. He established the World Fisheries Co-operative Day and held the 1st anniversary with "the Fisheries Co-operators' Pledge the Fishermen of the World" in Seoul, Korea. He realized the co-operative spirit by publishing the Korean Fisheries Co-operatives' Business Knowledge Sharing Program to share expertise and experiences of ICFO members which was highly appreciated by Mr. Charles Gould, Director-General of ICA.

He also donated personal computers and fishing equipment to ICFO members for the development of fisheries co-operatives.
