Advancing Social Development and Social Justice Through Cooperative and Social and Solidarity Economy (SSE) Solutions: From the World Social Summit to Implementation

6 February 2026 (10:00 – 11:15 New York time)

UNHQ Conference Room 11 and live on UN WebTV

Background and Rationale

The 64th Commission for Social Development (CSocD64) is taking place from 2-10 February 2026 under the priority theme: “Advancing Social Development and Social Justice through Coordinated, Equitable, and Inclusive Policies.” The Commission is the first major United Nations meeting following the Second World Summit for Social Development (WSSD2) and the International Year of Cooperatives 2025 (IYC2025). Both processes recognized the role of cooperatives and the broader Social and Solidarity Economy (SSE) as key enablers of social justice, inclusion, and equitable social and economic development. The Doha Political Declaration further acknowledges the role of cooperatives and SSE entities in expanding access to decent work, inclusive finance, social protection systems, sustainable value chains, and community empowerment.

In addition, several recent global and regional policy frameworks, such as the United Nations General Assembly resolutions on Cooperatives in Social Development and on Promoting the Social and Solidarity Economy for Sustainable Development; the fourth United Nations Conference on Financing for Development; the African Union 10-Year Social and Solidarity Economy Strategy (2024-2034); the European Union Social Economy Action Plan; Framework Partnership Agreement between the European Commission and the International Cooperative Alliance; highlight the growing support for Cooperatives and the SSE.

As the world is currently facing multiple intersecting global crises, the Committee for the Promotion and Advancement of Cooperatives (COPAC)¹ is organizing a side event during the Commission for Social Development to highlight the role of cooperatives and the SSE in supporting countries' efforts to attain the Sustainable Development Goals and implement the outcomes of the World Social Summit.

¹ Members of COPAC are the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations; the International Cooperatives Alliance; the International Labour Organization; the International Trade Centre; the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs; and the United Nations Research Institute for Social Development.

Objective of the Side Event

This side event aims to showcase how cooperatives and SSE actors can help Member States and the UN system translate the Doha commitments and IYC2025 legacy into concrete policies and programmes that advance social justice, reduce inequalities, and strengthen the social dimension of sustainable development.

More specifically, the event will:

1. Highlight practical mechanisms through which cooperatives contribute to social justice, equitable access to opportunity, decent work, social protection, advance gender equality, education, access to healthcare, and community resilience.
2. Examine how coordinated, inclusive policy frameworks at the national and multilateral levels can accelerate the contribution of cooperatives and SSE entities.
3. Explore the role of the CM50 (Cooperatives and Mutuels Leadership Circle) initiative in strengthening public–private partnerships and scaling at-scale solutions across finance, leadership development, digital transformation, sustainable value chains, and crisis resilience.
4. Identify actionable recommendations for UN Member States and UN agencies to integrate cooperatives into the implementation of the WSS Doha commitments, the SDGs, and social development priorities.

Key Themes of the event include:

- Reducing Inequality within and between countries: Cooperative solutions for vulnerable groups, workers in informal economies, rural–urban disparities, youth, migrants, and persons with disabilities
- Coordinated and Inclusive Policy Frameworks: What Member States need to implement UN General Assembly resolutions on cooperatives and the SSE
- Financing a Fair and Inclusive Future: Cooperative capital instruments, shared platforms, and blended finance to scale up impact
- Sustainable and Ethical Value Chains: Cooperative models for fair trade, food systems, and climate-resilient economies
- Role of women in agrifood systems in light of the 2026 International Year of the Woman Farmer
